
TRYING TO DEFINE what is "news" has always caused those of us in the news profession some trouble, for there is no simple definition.

For example, there is that "if a dog bites a man, it is not news; but, if a man bites a dog, it is."

But it is often difficult to use that saw as prototype, as it doesn't fit the occasion...

Besides, how many times have you seen a man bite a dog anyway?

However, that old journalistic wheeze still does a fair job of explaining why "sensational" items get a bigger play than routine jobs in newspapers.

Of course in a community weekly newspaper like this, one might say that sensationalism is deliberately underplayed.

The paper tries to cover the community in depth rather than to revert to the shock treatment. Our big brothers in the newspaper field have been allowed to more or less preempt the community weekly in the sordid but necessary reporting of the more violent incidents in the eruption of life.

Admittedly the big boys carry out this "man bites dog" bit much more extensively than does the community paper which obviously, is somewhat limited in that particular field.

That is because, primarily, the "sensations", except in rare instances, are already pretty well covered by the metro papers.

TRYING TO APPLY that "man-bites-dog" allegory to the routine news that make up the pages of community newspaper like this one is a pleasant pastime.

One can, if bored, make a fun game out of it.

A for-instance was the action of the Planning Commission recently in approving the use permit application and the building plans for Fire Station No. 2 which will be located on Sunnyoaks.

Apparently to satisfy all the legal technicalities involved, the City was required to go through the same steps as any other applicant.

Unanimous approval was obtained from the Planning Commission and the action was duly reported in this sheet.

Now applying the man-bites-dog theory, the real news would have been, of course, if the City of Campbell (planning commission) had turned down the City of Campbell (fire department).

It no doubt would have made the front page of the Merc or News...And the wire services would have picked it up.

Of course, if that had happened, another follow-up story would have been how Fire Chief George Maxwell and Fire Marshal Gene Borden were scraped off the ceiling. That undoubtedly could have been where they would have landed if they were present and such action had taken place.

There are other examples that we could use to illustrate how the game would be played.

But we just thought you might chuckle along with that one.

It would be worth the price of admission alone to see George Maxwell hit the ceiling.

SPEAKING OF BURNING (we were, weren't we?) we felt a twinge or tinge of nostalgia recently when the City Council was notified that there was to be a public meeting called to discuss backyard burning.

The meeting was called by the Air Pollution District. At the meeting it was explained how much backyard burning supposedly contributed to the smog problem.

Prior to that meeting, however, the five Campbell city councilmen went on record opposing the elimination of

Police claim topless acts create problems

At the first city license revocation hearing ever held in this city with the City Council sitting as both judge and jury, 10 Campbell police officers last Tuesday, July 9, testified as to the problems that a topless establishment, the Classy Chassy, 1163 S. Bascom, had created in the city.

After three hours of testimony, conducted on a question and answer basis, the hearing was continued to a date not yet fixed to allow the "defense counsel" Donald A. Tenenbaum, to present his client's side of the case.

His client, A. T. Cohen, owner of the Classy Chassy, remained silent during the three hour hearing while Tenenbaum cross-examined the officers who testified.

City Attorney Joe Bonacina conducted the hearing

During August

Civic group launches drive to cleanup business areas

Campbell's business community will be put on the spot during the month of August when the first clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign takes place in Campbell sponsored by the Citizens Beautification Committee and the Chamber of Commerce.

More than 900 business, industrial and professional firms have been asked to participate.

The campaign is part of the 1968 National Clean-Up-Fix Up Contest that this city has entered for the first time.

At the Chamber of Commerce fall kick-off luncheon on Thursday, Sept. 26, awards will be presented to the top two winners within the five categories into which the business community has been divided.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wife of the president and actively engaged in promoting beautification on a nationwide basis, has been invited to be the keynote speaker at the CofC luncheon in September.

Mayor Bill Smeed, Mrs. Jeanette Watson, beautification committee chairman and Ken Mantle, CofC president joined in issuing the invitation to Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Watson, chairman of the Citizens Beautification Committee which is spearheading the campaign, said that the purpose is to recognize the efforts that are being made by business firms to make Campbell an attractive city in which to do business.

The firms will be evaluated on a six-point basis with emphasis on the work done by the businesses to improve conditions, as to signs, litter control, plantings, etc.

One of the five categories in the campaign will consist of civic organizations that have sponsored and executed beautification projects within the city.

Another of the categories is limited to the seven shopping centers that lie within the city limits; Campbell Shopping Center, Winchester at Latimer; Campbell Plaza, Winchester at Budd; Hamilton Plaza, Bascom at Hamilton; Rolling Hills, S. Tomas Road at Hacienda; San Tomas Village Shopping Center; Kirkwood Plaza, San Tomas Road at W. Campbell and Riverside Plaza, W. Hamilton at San Tomas Expressway.

Another division will consist of retail merchants not located in shopping centers while another category will include the service and professional offices within the city. The other division will be limited to the industrial and manufacturing establishments.

Except for the civic organizations, all the categories will have two sections; One will include those making the biggest beautification improvement since the first of the year and the other will consist of those having the most beautifully maintained premises.

The evaluation of the firms will be done by a panel of seven judges who will make their decision in September.

Gas station appeal goes to City Council

An appeal from a Planning Commission decision denying a use permit for a Humble Oil service station on Winchester Blvd., just south of the Campbell Plaza Shopping Center, will highlight the City Council agenda next Monday, July 22.

The proposed site for the gas station contains approximately 28,542 square feet with an approximate depth of 150-feet and 200-feet frontage on Winchester Blvd.

Members of the Planning Commission expressed concern over the traffic problem the station would create on heavily-traveled Winchester Blvd. One of the suggested plans calls for a more or less

A GOOD-SIZED CITY——Campbell's official population is now 22,950, according to the estimate made by the State Department of Finance. The city has grown by 1,150 in the past three years. The new figure means that Campbell's state subventions will jump by approximately $17,250 annually based on about $15 per person.

In the above photo Jim Elam, of the city's street department, installs the new population strip on the city limit sign on W. Campbell Ave., west of Fulton St. According to Ken Hickman, public works superintendent, there are 18 such city limit signs.

For six-month period

Building in city doubles last year total to date

Except for commercial-type buildings and swimming pools, there has been virtually a building boom in effect in Campbell for the past six months and the city is on the way to a record-breaking building year.

Building activity on the almost every front has more than doubled that of last year, a tabulation of the monthly building report reveals.

And single family building permits issued by the City of Campbell during the month of June almost equalled the entire total for the first six months of 1967, according to Wally Byron, city building official.

In June this year there were 43 permits issued for single family homes totalling $870,026 compared to a total of 49 permits for the first six months last year for $905,357. In June last year there were 10 such permits for $177,472.

For the first six months last year, the building permit total reached $2,216,365 while at the end of the same six-month period this year the total was $4,853,365.

Actually the total for June more than tripled that of the same month in 1968...This June there were 61 of all types of building permits issued for $1,199,511 compared to 19 last June for $332,184.

However, in June of this year there were no permits issued for duplexes while in June of last year there was one such permit for $22,648. However, in the first six months this year, there have been 16 permits for duplexes for $512,664 compared to only two for the same period last year for $46,408.

Except for swimming pools and commercial buildings this June's total exceeded that of June last year.

In June, 1967, there were three permits for swimming pools for $14,100 while this June there were only two such permits for $6,000.

However, for the six-month period, there have been 10 pool permits taken out this year for $32,100 compared to five in the same period last year for $20,200.

In June this year only one commercial building permit was issued for $15,000 and there have been eight in the six-months totalling $427,032.

In June 1968 there were no such permits but the six month total came to $599,725 for 15 permits....

There were three permits for multiples this June for $161,184 and a total of 17 for the six-month period for $743,799 compared to two in June 1967 for $75,503 and a total of seven for the six-month span for $334,661.

There were two permits in the industrial category in June this year for $103,560 and 10 for the year so far for $665,707 compared to none in June of 1967.

In June of this year there were 11 permits issued for alterations for $39,909 compared to 15 in June 1967 for $39,176 and there were 60 such permits issued in the first six months for $145,195 compared to 70 this year for $199,076.

Editorial

Civic responsibility

Considerable attention has been focused on the public hearings that the City Council is now holding on the question of whether the city license should be revoked for the Classy Chassy, a so-called topless establishment located on Bascom Ave.

The first such hearing was held last week when a parade of city police officers testified as to the complaints and reports involving the Classy Chassy.

We concede that different people have different ideas on the question of lewdness and obscenity. The fact remains, however, that based on testimony offered by the Campbell officers, many of the acts described would be considered lewd and obscene even in the most broad-minded circles.

We concede also that it is difficult for a police department to decide what or what not is obscene even when the courts seem to have trouble determining the same question.

And there is always, of course, the possible danger that, if a police department did have the authority to rule on such a question, it would give the police too much of a club to use.

But there must be limits, except for the most deproved, as to what can be classified as lewd and obscene.

According to some of the testimony we have heard concerning Campbell's topless joints, quite a number of obscene acts were noted by the police which, in our opinion, would justify revoking the license.

We recognize, of course, that, if the city license was revoked, charges about a "police state" will be made.

Complaints will also be made that local government is interfering with a legal private enterprise over which control has been preempted by the state.

Thus the conclusion would be offered that, inasmuch as the state has not seen fit to crack down on the joint for violations, it must be legal.

That's a lot of hogwash.

Despite all this talk about the state "preempting" this and that, we believe that a community has a right to regulate the type of entertainment that establishments offer within its limits.

Without getting involved in the question of morals or the definition of lewd and obscene acts, one of the major points, in our opinion, that must be considered are the problems on or off the premises that are caused directly or indirectly by the type of entertainment that is offered.

Maybe the state has preempted the field of live entertainment. So what?

Is the state also going to take care of the side issues that will develop, such as extra police protection that is needed to control the activities?

That is the point we resent most about this whole topless mess in our community in the first place.

If a person enjoys the type of entertainment that is offered at the joints, that's his business.

But it darn whistling becomes MY business when extra police protection is needed regularly at a joint because of the problems that arise.

According to the testimony we heard, we do mean, EXTRA police protection.

Whenever a call came in that there was trouble at the Classy Chassis, the officer who would answer had to be "covered" by others, thus spreading the police protection that much thinner throughout the rest of the town.

That it is entirely unfair to the residents of this city.

We heartily commend Police Chief John Morgan for pressing the issue.

We agree with Chief Morgan that the entertainment of that type does not add anything to the community, It increases police problems in the area of regulation and tends to create an atmosphere which is not in the best interest of the community.

There is also another economic factor that must be considered. The Campbell police department is operating one-man cars at night.

Obviously, if the establishments continue to create police problems that could ignite into major incidents, it will be necessary to add additional personnel so that the night cars could be manned by two regular police cars.

And that will cost money.

The two topless establishments that operate in this town have become headquarters for gangs, especially of the infamous motorcycle variety that are notorious for causing trouble of major or minor classification.

There already has been one shooting, a near homicide, because of trouble starting at one of the establishments involving bike gang members.

We realize that the City Council faces a difficult task in acting as judge and jury in the hearings.

But the councilmen have a responsibility to all the people in the community, not just a small segment of it.

The police chief and the editor of this paper also have the same responsibility.

It is our opinion that part of this responsibility is to help prevent or prohibit activities that are shown to be detrimental to the city as a whole.

backyard burning.

Prior to coming to Campbell in 1955 we edited a newspaper in the smog belt in southern California.

The year we left (1955) the arguments waxed hot and heavy about backyard burning.

A number of city councils in the area took the same action as Campbell's City Council did the other night.

They opposed the elimination of the lowly yard incinerator.

Backyard burning, however, was banned the next year.

But the tears that streamed from the eyes of the people who did the banning of the burning were not caused by sentiment over the backyard incinerator. Keeping the backyard home fires burning seemed unimportant at the time.

It was just plain old smog that caused the ban.

Anything that contributed even one particle to that eye-smarting condition, became unpopular...The percentage of pollution caused by backyard fires as compared to automobile exhaust fumes really did not seem to matter.

The burning ban in the L. A. area has been in effect now for more than 12 years. How much it has helped the smog problem no one seems to know.

There is still smog down there.

But in the southland it was necessary to go all out, just to keep even; smogwise, that is.

Are we so different up here?

Will you excuse us a moment, please?

We have to wipe our eyes.

THIS COMMUNITY WAS highly honored recently when Janie Wong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Wong, of 494 Sunnyoaks, was elected governor of Girls State in Sacramento.

Janie was sponsored by West Valley American Legion Auxiliary Unit 158 and it marked the first time that a Campbell girl had achieved that office.

She presided at the Girls State which was held on the campus of the University of California, Davis.

Naturally your community newspaper played the story up big.....running a banner headline and five photos (two on the front page alone).

One of the photos we particularly liked showed Janie with Chancellor Emil M. Mrak of UCD.

The two of them compared notes about their alma mater, Campbell High. Chancellor Mrak attended high school here in the 1920's.

For an additional Campbell twist, we published a letter from Bob Pentzer, public relations director at Cal at Davis.

Bob enclosed the picture of Janie and the Chancellor.

Bob is also a Campbell High graduate.....His parents (Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Pentzer) still live at 876 Kenneth Ave., just a stone's throw from where Janie lives.

In his letter Bob recalled receiving some occupational counseling from us during his collegiate journalistic days at San Jose State. He was also active on the Campus Echo while in high school.

It was Bob, in his PR capacity at Davis, who was responsible for this sort of mini-homecoming event.

It was a wonderful experience for Janie and the delegates at Girls State also should be commended for their good judgment.

We agree with what Bob Culp, Campbell High principal said, "it couldn't have happened to a nicer girl."

We also liked that unscheduled lilt and tilt to the dramatic event when Janie was sworn into office as Girls State governor.

Assemblywoman March Fong of Oakland did the swearing in. Fong and Wong.

Shucks Fong and Jones would have sounded terribly prosaic in comparison.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? Much to our surprise we learned recently what the PONY part of PONY LEAGUE, the youth's baseball organization stands for.

Incidentally, the Campbell-Moreland League will build and use the ball field at the city-owned Rincon Park site.

Anyway PONY, we understand, stands for "Preserve Our Nations Youth."

Now you know, too.

before the Council, which had been instigated by Police Chief John Morgan, who was the first police officer to take the stand.

Chief Morgan had maintained on the basis of the reports made by his department that the license to operate the Classy Chassy should be revoked.

Cohen, then as owner of the establishment, was directed to appear at the public hearing to show why his license should not be revoked.

City Attorney Bonacina called the officers in an effort to show that the Classy Chassy's operation is detrimental to the health, safety, and welfare of Campbell's citizenry.

In a prepared statement which Chief Morgan read before being questioned by Bonacina and cross-examined by Tenenbaum, the chief emphasized that his responsibility was to all the citizens of the community.

He said that, in his opinion, topless entertainment added nothing to the common good of the community but seemed to detract from the morals, character and general welfare of the citizens.

Morgan also traced the background of the topless problem since its inception in the city, extending to the summer of 1967.

The chief also reported the letters that he had written on the subject to the city manager and city attorney.

He cited the many complaints that had been filed since the first of the year and explained the dangers created by the side effects the entertainment had created. He also pointed out the manpower and cost that had been necessary to handle the situation during the past months.

Along with Morgan's statement, police reports of specific complaints and incidents had been compiled into a booklet which was filed with the clerk.

The parade of police officer witnesses in most cases corroborated the file. In some instances, the questions and answers brought out the fact that some of the officers had worked as "undercover investigators".

Much of the testimony described the lewd and suggestive acts allegedly performed by the "topless" entertainers and the activities of "outlaw motorcycle gangs" that were attracted to the spots.

In his cross-examination of the officers, Tenenbaum emphasized that no arrests had been made at the Classy Chassy from Jan 14 to June 28.

The officers indicated in their answers that the basic reasons for no arrests was because of the reluctance of witnesses to press charges.

Witnesses were sworn in by Judy Bicksler, a free lance court reporter, who was employed by the city attorney to record the hearing on tape.

Approximately 70 persons attended the hearing.

Bottleneck

In a direct appeal for prompt action, Santa Clara Valley Assemblymen Earle P. Crandall (R-SJ) and George W. Milias (R-Gilroy) urged California State Highway Commission Chairman Vernon Cristina to seek "a swift solution to the critical traffic bottleneck" at the Camden Ave. overpass of Highway 17.

The Crandall-Milias letter pointed out that the completion of the San Tomas Expressway, which ties into the Highway 17-Camden Ave. intersection, has brought the problem to a critical head.

In asking for approval of the service station, representatives of Humble Oil, as well as developers of the Campbell Plaza, owners of the property, emphasized the high traffic count on Winchester and that the proposed station would be a replacement for a station that would be eliminated upon completion of the San Tomas Expressway at Camden.

Appointment of two planning commissioners is also scheduled for Monday's Council meeting.

The terms of former chairman, Jack Healey, and present chairman, Frank Klein, are expiring.

Both have indicated, by letter, in compliance with an established Council policy, that they desire to be reappointed.

Although the Council has directed City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan to list the other applicants for the Planning Commission, it is expected that Healey and Klein will be re-named to the commission.

In another item, the Council is expected to discuss and possibly act on the recommendation of the County Health Department, which also serves this city, to update the city's ordinances on pet animals. The recommendation also asks that a section be included in the new ordinance that would cover "exotic animals".

In another action, the Council is expected to approve the zone change for property on Hacienda Ave., from commercial to multiple to allow for the proposed development of a garden apartment complex on the site on which the former "Big Boy Market" was located.

A report on the civic center tower project is also scheduled based on the conference that took place Monday afternoon between the developer, Fred Sahadi, and city officials.

Mayor Bill Smeed, City Manager Bob Stephens and City Attorney Joe Bonacina represented the city at the discussion which concerned mainly the time table involved in the project.

City planners deny permit

Campbell Planning Commission members gave approval on Monday night to a zone change that would allow outdoor eating for a restaurant but they refused to approve a use permit for a coin-operated car wash.

The application for the zone change for the restaurant from C-1-S to C-2-S was for property on the north side of W. Campbell Ave. between La Pradera and San Tomas Aquino Road.

The applicant, Wing H. Don, explained that the restaurant would specialize in roast beef sandwiches and non-alcoholic beverages. Food would be served to customers on the inside and could be consumed at picnic tables on the outside.

The present zoning of C-1-S does not allow eating on the outside.

All six of the commissioners present approved the zone-change. (Commissioner Ed Pack was absent.)

The coin-operated car wash application had been submitted by Kenneth W. Bott for property at 767 Gale Drive off Hamilton at Darryl.

The majority of commissioners indicated that they felt a more compatible use could be found for the property.

Commissioner Kel Young cast the only vote for the car-wash. Opposing it were Commissioners Thayer Lyons, Jack Healey, Merrill Grim, Dale Scott and Chairman Frank Klein.

Car theft ring broken by Campbell police

A car theft ring was broken up Monday by Campbell and San Jose police who discovered a total of three stolen cars, two partly dismantled, in a garage located at 2470 S. Winchester.

A stake-out of the property followed. James Ernest Addington, 21, 2386 Pauline Drive and Jeffery Harold Cooper, 21, 653 B. Curtner, were booked into the Santa Clara County jail on charges of conspiracy and stealing cars, after being apprehended while approaching the property with, apparently, parts of another stolen car.

Captain Don Burr was contacted by Sgt. R. Pierson of the San Jose police with information that they believed stolen vehicles were located in the garage at the Winchester property. A check of the premises showed a 1966 Chevelle super sports car in the garage and also two blue Chevelle Corvettes, partly dismantled. A file check showed the cars to be stolen. Investigations are now under way.

The cars are now impounded at Bob's Body Shop pending the suspects trial.

Stolen items include money doors and bikes

Eight bicycles were stolen during the last week in Campbell. A number were taken from homes ranging from Westmont to Fewtrell in area and others were taken from various school grounds. All were unlocked and only a few were licensed.

Fred S. Finberg, residing at 14434 Oak Place, Saratoga has been building a duplex on Gale Drive between Marathon and Dell Avenue. As part of the decor three-foot hand carved Mexican doors were planned for the front entrance. Two doors were removed from the premises befor being hung. Finberg then nailed the remaining doors into the jam, but on July 9 he discovered someone had wanted the doors so badly that they had pried them out of the door jam and removed the pins from the hinges. Police are investigating leads.

The Speedee 7-11 Market, 2223 S. Bascom was robbed Friday, of $600 in cash and checks by a slender 6' 2" young man wearing a violet hat and suit. Entering the establishment he informed the clerk that "This is a robbery, put your arms down, get a bag and put all of the bills in it. Get the change too and then lay down". The robber had a loud deep voice, according to Ed Puentes who was forced to lie down while the robber departed after also helping himself to a carton of Pall Mall cigarettes.

Fair to judge junior royalty

Royalty may be waiting just around the corner for some Santa Clara County residents, according to William A. Straub, Santa Clara County Fair secretary-manager.

The reference is made to the Junior King and Queen Contest for the 24th annual Fair. All entrants must be at least 10, but not have reached their 13th birthday as of August 9, Straub noted. Entrants must be residents of Santa Clara County.

Prospective royal candidates will be judged on talent, photogenic appeal, voice quality, diction, personality, and impression. Winners will be available for related activities up to and during the County Fair.

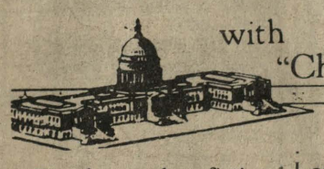
ON CAPITOL HILL



with "Charlie" Gubser

The famous but fictional "missile gap" of the 1960 Presidential Campaign provided a new style in metaphor which quickly spread to include the "credibility gap", the "generation gap" and a host of others. The latest is what I call the "performance gap".

New laws passed by the dozens promise a great deal but produce very little by way of performance. In fact, many persons believe one of the causes of rioting, disobedience, and unrest is the frustration which results when a particular group is led to believe that a new federal program will suddenly improve their lot only to find that nothing changes. Laws have become symbols instead of solutions.

Those who fashion this passing parade of promises either lack the ability or the honesty to recognize the elementary truth that new programs must be paid for–by taxpayers. Budget makers and those who appropriate taxpayers' money can rarely stretch available funds far enough to redeem liberal promises in full.

During the recent consideration of a far reaching bill to create housing at a rate ten times faster than ever before, two incidents occurred which demonstrate how unrealistic some of today's "never-never land" economists can be. Both concerned low income housing.

Because the bill did not define "low income housing", it could have been interpreted as a broad promise to subsidize housing for some families with annual incomes as high as $10,000. This might be desirable if available taxpayers' funds would stretch that far. But what about the thirteen million families with incomes of less than $5,000 per year? What about the 3½ million families living in substandard housing today whose income is less than $4,000? Shouldn't these people be helped first from the limited funds available?

A slim majority of the House saw the common sense in this point and adopted an amendment which insured that the poorest people would be helped first. But, strangely, the ultra liberals and the bureaucrats of the Department of HUD fought the amendment bitterly. Apparently they wanted grand and sweeping promises with little hope for performance.

Congressman Mailliard of San Francisco offered a second amendment which would allow the Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) to guarantee bonds, debentures, or notes issued by state and local government for the for the construction of low cost income housing. By getting state governments and non-profit organizations into the low income housing effort, it would certainly have provided more housing for the truly poor. But here again, the "promisers" wanted no competition for the federal government and they successfully resisted the amendment.

I supported both amendments believing that a low income housing program should first concentrate on those of greatest need and as many agencies as possible should help in meeting that need.

Closing the gap between promise and performance is one of our most urgent national needs. If the restlessness and the bitterness which envelope many Americans are to be changed, laws must be something more than mere symbols. They must, in fact, become honest solutions.

County schools get funds for special tutors

Operation SHARE, a tutoring project, and Santa Clara County Projects to Advance Creativity in Education (SPACE) have been funded for the 1968-69 school year by Title III funds of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, according to Glenn Hoffman, Santa Clara County Superintendent of Schools. The County office of Education is the applicant agency for both projects.

Operation SHARE has been an outgrowth of the activities of the Area 4 Service Center of the Economic Opportunity Commission headed by Hugo Bayona. Operation SHARE is designed to coordinate the efforts of 1500 volunteers who will be working with 1500 students needing tutorial assistance.

The volunteers, most of them college students, will be drawn from institutions of higher learning in Santa Clara County. The project was written and will be directed by Mr. Gil Solano, who for the past year has been on the Area 4 Service Center staff.

Annual talent search begins for county fair

A wide variety of talent from all over the county is expected during the next three weeks at the Fairgrounds in preparation for the 24th annual Santa Clara County Fair, to be held Aug. 16-25.

The Folk Happening will begin three successive weekends of talent-screening 1 p.m. Sunday in Exposition Hall. Anyone, either alone or in a group, may demonstrate their folk-music talents, according to William A. Straub, Fair secretary-manager.

Preliminaries will be held July 14 at 1 p.m. for other areas of talent, such as music, drama, or comedy. There will be two separate divisions for this event, senior (for those over 16 years old) at Exposition Hall and junior, at Fiesta Hall.

Those appearing in the Folk Happening will also be able to sign up for the talent preliminaries if they wish, Straub said. However, no person may appear twice during a talent event, he added.

Groups using amplified sound will be able to participate in the Combo preliminary at 1 p.m. Saturday, July 20, at Fiesta Hall.

Fair officials hope to select entertainment to be used during Fair Week from the Folk Happening talent events.

The public is invited to all three talent dates, Straub noted. For further information, contact Special Events, Santa Clara County Fair, 344 Tully Road, phone 295-3050, ext. 19.

Two of the most successful ventures were undertaken by the West Rincon Homeowners Association and the residents of Queens Court, Inwood Drive children were also kept at home watching a neighborhood fireworks display.

Over 200 children participated in the West Rincon parade which started at 10 a.m. at 2270 Cervantes Ave., traveled down Maximillian to Century Drive and up Montezuma to the finish line.

Prizes were awarded for numerous categories, and the children turned out in droves to participate while the adults enjoyed the display of patriotism.

The group pooled their "fireworks" money and bought a complete assortment from the Optimists firework stand with Mike Grant and Burt Hume acting as official fireworks setter-offers.

After the fireworks lawn games were enjoyed by the children under the direction of "Pied Piper" Grant. A prize was given to the child picking up the most sparkler wires, and Cindy Casteel took first prize.

W V. students aid children by tutoring

As the spring semester ended, some 125 West Valley College students completed participation in tutorial programs, aiding disadvantaged children throughout the area.

The operation was performed through six community organizations, including Operation Head Start, Operation Share, the Volunteer Bureau, Amigos Anonymous, St. Mark's Community Center on San Jose's East Side the college "Y" Big Brother Program.

Headquarters for the program was the office of the Dean of Student Activities, where requests for student aid were funneled. Aid was not limited solely to children, but was given "from babies to the aged".

The program was coordinated through the college's Social Science Club and was strictly an all-student activity, assisted by the college advisor to that club, Miss Phyllis Williams.

First step was a club meeting, where speakers came to define the needs in the community, and student volunteers were accepted and given orientation programs.

Some of the students involved were working 40 hours a week, going to school and still participating in the program.

Estimates from the Social Science Club indicates that about 1,000 children have been influenced, with often as many as three or four tutors in a single home.

Contact with children was made through elementary schools, with principals referring students, while "Operation Share" brought the tutors and the children together.

Areas involved included East San Jose, Santa Clara, the Quito area (Saratoga), Campbell elementary school areas and the Dartmouth area in the Union School District.

Letters to the Editor

SUPPORTS CHIEF

Dear Sir:

In today's society what is the position of the female gender? Has she lost her position as a woman and become a thing or a symbol? Slowly but insidiously it appears that women have become a symbol. The great majority of women should rightly be angered and aroused. A few of their sex have let themselves be exploited so much that women today are symbols of base appeal.

It all began when advertising started using the female form in order to attract attention to a product. The zenith has been reached via the introduction of the topless shows.

It is an outrage that so few have been able to debase womanhood to the status of a product which is to be used to appeal to the more base emotions of human beings. Mothers, do you want to let your daughters inherit this stigma? Of course not, neither do the great majority of the males.

It is time for women to fight back. You can lend your support to your Police Chief's efforts to stop the top-less shows in Campbell. While I am not a resident of your City, I fully support your Chief and I will continue to fight to upgrade moral standards.

W. R. Bradley
Candidate for State Senator

THANK YOU NOTE

Dear George:

Please accept on behalf of the students and faculty of Campbell High School my sincere thanks for the excellent news coverage you have given our school this past year.

We feel most fortunate to have a newspaper in our community that is willing to publish the fine accomplishments of students, in letting the public know that the vast majority of our high school students are dedicated students that all of us can be proud.

The entire staff of the Campbell Press has been most cooperative in giving freely of their time to our students and the journalism staff at Campbell. Our school has been most fortunate this year in having received many student awards, and the Campbell Press has given us good coverage for each of these events.

Every public and private agency can make a contribution to the education of our youth, each in a different way. We are pleased that the Campbell Press has made their contribution not only this year, but for many years past.

Thanks for your assistance in making Campbell High a better school for the youth of our community.

Sincerely,
Robert M. Culp, principal
Campbell High School
